

What People are Saying About Rebecca Manley Pippert's Saltshaker Resources and Evangelism Training Conferences

- ❖ “I can’t express to you adequately in words the difference in how I now approach evangelism since attending the Saltshaker conference. Your talk on the incarnation has freed me to relax and truly celebrate my weakness, knowing that his grace is sufficient for me. I realized that I had been focused on myself instead of focusing on God. My blinders were removed and the areas of my unbelief confessed. I learned that God’s power is greater than my inadequacies. For the first time I find I am truly myself when I share Christ, instead of being worried about how I could potentially mess up. Wow, what a difference when you are genuinely God-focused!”

- ❖ “I have loved using The Way of Jesus seeker study guide! I have had a hard time trying to make regular Bible study material become more seeker-friendly. Now I don’t have to! I found the questions perceptive, easy to use and I loved the introductory question in each study. It really broke the ice and helped everyone relax. The seekers in my group also liked the sidebar quotes from various Christian thinkers. I so appreciate a Bible study guide that is thoughtful and intelligent. Thank you for writing it and keep on writing more!”

- ❖ “We used The Way of Jesus study guide and started our seeker study with three couples. Their backgrounds are varied, but the common denominator is that they are all seekers and none of them knows the scripture past the familiar childhood stories. We started with the first lesson in John 2 when Jesus cleansed the Temple. When we asked your first introduction question—‘What are common complaints people have against organized institutions such as the church?’—it was like opening a floodgate. There was a huge outpouring from these people who had been deeply wounded by negative experiences either within the church or by ‘religious’ people in the past. There could not have been a more appropriate passage of Scripture to begin with! They soaked it up like sponges, and you could just feel the freedom and amazement they were sensing when they realized that Jesus was unhappy about many of the same things they did not like! We are so grateful God led us to your Saltshaker conference and especially to your seeker study material!”

- ❖ “I always used to worry, would I be able to answer their questions or would I turn them off? But after your conference I came away with a whole new freedom to trust God for what I needed in that moment. I realized I’ve been trying to do evangelism without depending on God! I loved your emphasis on prayer. And since the conference I’ve had the best conversations with seekers I have ever experienced! It isn’t just my approach to evangelism that’s changed, I feel my understanding of faith has been revitalized and deepened.”
