

New Volume Published in the History of Evangelicalism Series

InterVarsity Press's sought-after series on the history of evangelicalism seeks to integrate the social and intellectual history of a diverse yet cohesive Christian movement over the last three hundred years. The associations, books, practices, beliefs, networks of influence and prominent individuals which descended from the eighteenth-century British and North American revivals all come into view. Accessible to a wide range of readers, the five volumes, of which four are currently available, of the History of Evangelicalism Series provide not only factual details but also fascinating interpretations of a movement that is still influential today.

The Global Diffusion of Evangelicalism: The Age of Billy Graham and John Stott
May 2013
 $24, 288 pages, paperback
 978-0-8308-2585-1

The latest volume, The Global Diffusion of Evangelicalism, offers an authoritative survey of worldwide evangelicalism following the Second World War. It discusses the globalization of movements of mission, evangelism and revival, paying particular attention to the charismatic and neo-Pentecostal movements. The trends in evangelical biblical scholarship, preaching and apologetics were no less significant, including the discipline of hermeneutics in key issues. Extended treatment is given to the part played by southern-hemisphere Christianity in broadening evangelical understandings of mission.

"There is to date no more succinct or accessible an introduction to the far-flung networks of friendships and rivalries that inspired these transforming cultural movements."

– The Journal of Religion, on The Rise of Evangelicalism

"In this new study, Bebbington reveals the extraordinary influence of 19th-century evangelicalism. His striking conclusion is . . . Evangelicals rule! The secret to evangelicalism's success lies in its distinctives."

– Timothy Larsen, Christianity Today, June 2006, on The Dominance of Evangelicalism

While the roles of familiar leaders such as Billy Graham, John Stott, Carl Henry, Martyn Lloyd-Jones and Festo Kivengere receive full coverage, space is also given to lesser-known figures, such as Edward Carnell, Agnes Sanford, Orlando Costas, John Gatu and John Laird, and considering whether evangelical expansion has been at the price of theological coherence and stability.
